IN MEMORIAM

On June 25, 1970, as this issue was going to press, we learned of the death of Dr. Wilbert McLeod Chapman. An internationally known expert on fisheries, Dr. Chapman provided much needed guidance and inspiration in our initial efforts to produce a Law of the Seas issue. He was a good friend of the San Diego Law Review. He will be missed.

On July 26, 1970, the Review was deeply saddened by the news that Dr. Milner B. Schaefer had passed away. Dr. Schaefer, who was the Director of the Institute of Marine Resources, University of California, San Diego, had also been a friend of the Review. He too was an internationally known and respected authority on the sea.

The loss of these two gentlemen in such a short period is indeed a blow. We only hope that this issue of Law of the Seas, dedicated to them, can serve as a partial reminder of their contributions to man's understanding of the seas.
